LUCKY LADD FARMS KICKS OFF 1ST ANNUAL SCARECROW BUILDING CONTEST

EAGLEVILLE, TN.-- Scare up a friend or two and head down to Lucky Ladd Farms, to enter a homemade scarecrow in their 1st Annual Scarecrow Building Contest on Saturday, September 26th and Sunday, September 27th.

There is no cost to participate and entrants will receive free admission to the farm on the day they set-up and again on awards day. Entrants are responsible for bringing and installing their fully assembled scarecrows at Lucky Ladd Farms from 11 am to 6 pm.

The design should be based from one of the following categories: Traditional – overalls, plaid shirts and your special down on the farm touch, Mr. Green Jeans – made from reused and recycled materials, and iCrow – high tech, shiny, bright and wired. Visit the farms web site at www.luckyladdfarms.com to register and obtain more information on rules and regulations.

The contest is judged by the public and awards will be presented on Saturday, October 31st at 3:00 pm. The entrants or a designated representative should be present. The winner of each design category receives $75 and has a chance to win $200 if their design is chosen "Something to Crow About", the overall best in show scarecrow winner!

Yee-haw! So saddle up and head down to the Lucky Ladd Farms! While down on the farm, be sure to join in all the farm fresh fun --pick a pumpkin, go on a hay ride, meander through the sorghum maze or pet all kinds of farm animals!

Get into Fall at Lucky Ladd Farms, conveniently located half-way between Franklin and Murfreesboro in Eagleville, just minutes south of Nashville. Additional farm and contest information is available on-line at www.luckyladdfarms.com or contacting farm owner, Amy Ladd at 615-274-3786 or by e-mail at farmerladd@luckyladdfarms.com.
